

Supplemental: FDR control for non-canonical identifications

(a) a global cut does not control the non-canonical class red = global 1% cut, coloured = class-specific cut (used throughout)

(b) why: HBL1, null (naive AUG)
the global cut sits inside the novel decoy bulk

(c) the error is driven by the canonical class, not by database size

